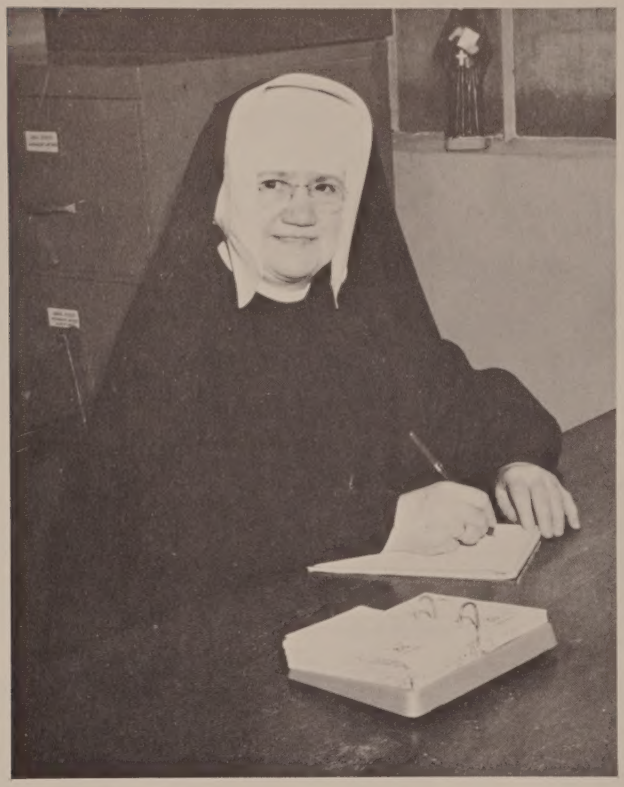
Presents

The Mariner

Dedication



To SISTER MARY ROSE CARMEL, principal, who will complete twelve years of dedicated service at Star of the Sea School as we complete the same number of years of education, we respectfully and affectionately dedicate our 1961 issue of The Mariner.

Dedicated to Our Interests . . .

1. Very Reverend Paul D. Malyszko, Pastor, is spiritual father as well as administrator of the school. Father is likewise the director of the sodality.

2. Sister M. Rose Carmel, superior and principal, enjoys her teaching in the business department. She finds it a welcome change from her principal's duties.

3. Sister M. Angel Guardian, head of the music department, selects music for her choral work. Sister is girls' choral director, and teaches voice and piano.

4. Sister M. Catherine, senior adviser, (playing a recording of Everyman,) teaches English, speech, and basic principles of christian living. She is moderator of the National Honor Society and yearbook adviser.

5. Sister M. Hilary, junior adviser, reaches for some equipment for physics class. Science, mathematics, and religion round out her teaching schedule. Sister is moderator of the Sodality.

6. Sister Marian Raymond, sophomore adviser, is giving a few pointers on serving a volleyball. Besides girls' physical education, Sister teaches religion, latin, history and algebra, and moderates the Pep Club.

7. Sister M. Ann Bernadette, freshman adviser, helps a library assistant line up his duties. Sister teaches English and religion, and is librarian.

8. Rev. Chester Wrzaszczak, assistant pastor, makes Cicero fun to his select class. He is spiritual father to the students, and teaches religion and latin.

9. Sister Mary Antonetta can scarcely spare time to smile at the birdie when at her organist job. Boy's choral director, Sister also teaches piano and organ.

10. Mrs. Floyd Reith, our school nurse, displays the wonderful affability that always accompanies her work at Star of the Sea.

11. Coach Dale Andrich is enjoying this game. Coach teaches boys' P.E., history and biology in addition to his work with athletics.

12. Mr. Charles Turina isn't used to posing for the camera. His unsung service to the school make him an integral part of its every operation, from school play to finishing the new wing.

13. Mrs. Nick Zorick and Mrs. Lloyd Adams, in charge of our cafeteria lunch, are favorites of every student, for a reason the camera seems to have uncovered.

14. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kimpo combine their devoted talents to keep our school and church in tip-top condition.

15. The Parents Club officers represent a solid block of support for our school and our Catholic education. From l. to r., Mrs. Roscoe Miles, Mr. Ted Ruoff, president, and Mrs. Fred Alfonse.

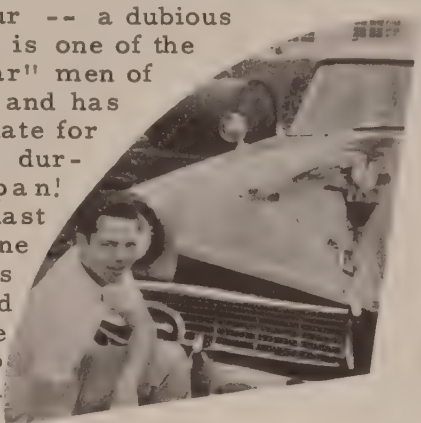
Senior Personalities

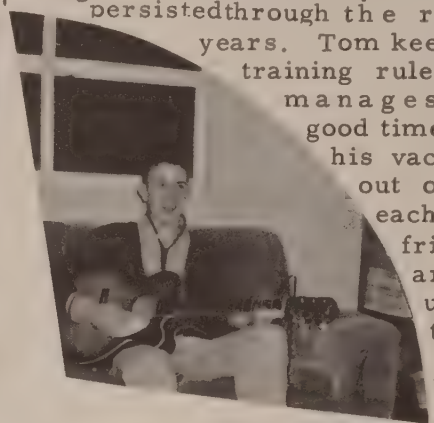
TONY FASTABEND

Tony has assumed the role of class joker, his droll observations can put the class in stitches. Tony also lives by the law of procrastination, a favorite sin of the seniors. This year he served as the Fire Chief of the school, as well as class secretary, a change from his role as treasurer in the freshman and junior years. Lovell Auto Company has had Tony in its employ recently. Our lad holds the class record for car wrecks, four -- a dubious honor. He is one of the five "12 year" men of the class, and has never been late for school once during that span! Tony is the last in the long line of famous Fastabend brothers. He hopes to go into math in college.



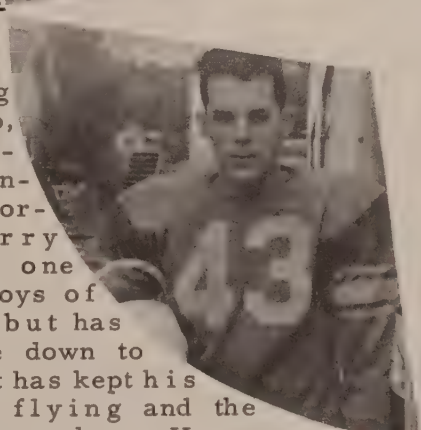
TOM OWEN

Tom, the bomber Owen is the oldest member of the class. The president of the Lettermen's Club, he is the silent spark of the basketball team, the most inspirational player in his junior year. Tom always manages to be the first one to practice. He not only has ability on the basketball floor, but he plays the guitar too. It is a little difficult to get him to play in public though. Tom is the founder of Owenism, a senior philosophy of government. He first brought his "ism" into being in the freshman year, and it has persisted through the rest of the years. Tom keeps all of the training rules, still he manages to have a good time. He takes his vacation in and out of Seaside each year with friends in that area. Tom is uncertain as to his future. Perhaps some service time.



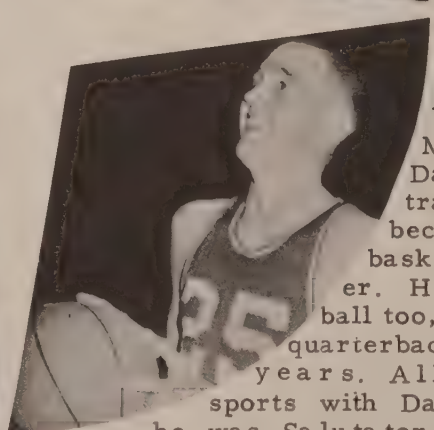
LARRY KOBBE

Twelve long years ago, this handsome boy entered our portals. Larry used to be one of the flyboys of the class, but has now come down to earth, but has kept his longing for flying and the great blue yonder. He was an ardent member of the Civil Air Patrol Besides speeding in the air he was the fastest man on the football team. He has a good sense of humor. Larry can be excited very easily, but it is still easy to get along with him. The girls in his life have found this to be true. Larry has a way with the members of the other sex. When he is not busy elsewhere he works at a gas station. For relaxation Larry lives to attend parties and socialize with everybody. Immediate plans include a hitch in the service, which he hopes will be followed by an aviation career.



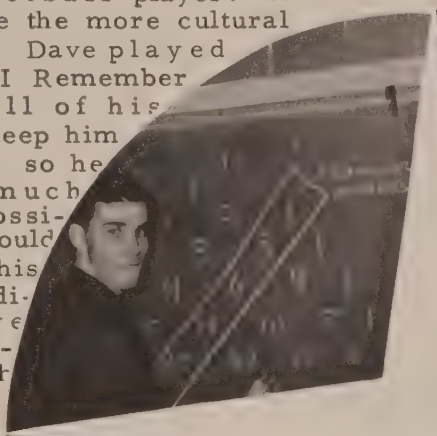
DAVE MOORE

As a member of the Moore family Dave followed tradition and became a good basketball player. He tried football too, and played quarterback for three years. All was not sports with Dave, though; he was Salutatorian for the class of '61 and was a member of the National Honor Society. A hard worker, he often saves the class by doing a job that has been overlooked by the rest, particularly in his job as editor of the annual. An active student, he usually gets to bed before 10 o'clock, and snatches important naps during some classes. But he is not lazy, having worked for his Dad, saving for a career in engineering. Besides liking math, he likes collecting senior dues. Dave likes to work on cars, too, especially old Fords. We'll miss this man after 12 years around the school.



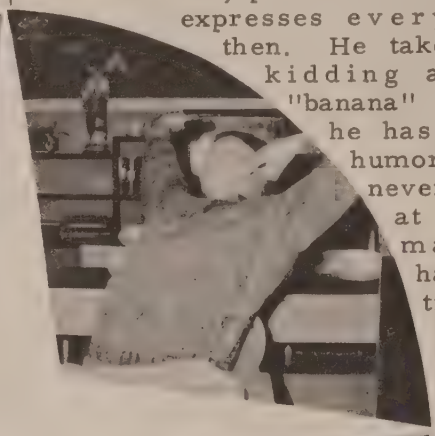
DAVE ROSCOE

The U. S. Navy came into port with Dave one day about six years ago. Dave was soon known as the genius of the class, keeping close to a 4.0 grade point average. His work in this field has given him the honor of being the class of '61's Valedictorian. Dave is a member of the National Honor Society, and is our student body president, after class presidencies in freshman and sophomore years. He has received two summer session scholarships. In sports, Dave is a good basketball player. His talents also include the more cultural subjects. Dave played Papa in "I Remember Mama". All of his activities keep him on the run, so he gets as much sleep as possible. This would account for his habitual tardiness. Dave plans a career in math or engineering.



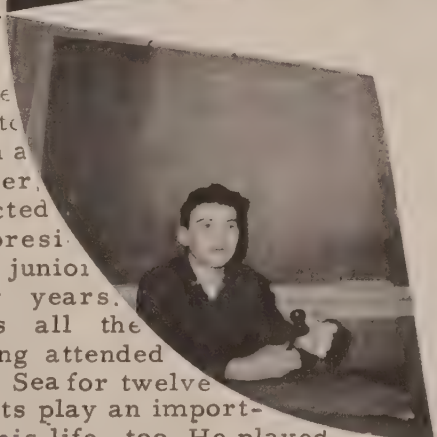
BILL ZORICH

Bill is one of the "country boys" in the class, coming as a freshman from good ole Olney Tech. He comes from a large family of larger Zoriches. Bill played football the last two years of high school. He is the idol of the female underclassmen. He is always laughing or giggling; this last trait often gets him out of class before anyone else. At least he can get to lunch early that way. This is good, for Bill loves to eat, especially potatoes and gravy. He used to want to fly for a living; now he just wants a living. Bill has very practical ideas which he expresses every now and then. He takes a lot of kidding about his "banana" nose, but he has a sense of humor and can never stay mad at anyone, no matter how hard he may try. Uncle Sam will probably be hosting him "shortly"



PHIL SULLIVAN

Phil has the personality to keep him a class leader. He was elected the class president both junior and senior years. He knows all the ropes, having attended Star of the Sea for twelve years. Sports play an important part in his life, too. He played Varsity basketball for 4 years and is the "Bob Cousy" of the team. Phil is the artist of the class; he plans to put his talent to good use in the field of architecture. This curly headed lad has held down many jobs in his high shcool years, ranging from fishing to working in a cataloging office. He, like the rest of his class, likes a good time and thinks life is here to be enjoyed. Phil is modest about his silent mastery over girls. He is one of the better drivers in the class. Our man represents SSHS at a Catholic leaders meeting in Port land and at the legislature.



MEL WICK

You can't miss Mel, he's the one with the constantly sleepy look on his face. This handsome man came on the scene in the sixth grade, and is the oldest of the eight Wicks in school. Mel really wakes up where cars are concerned. Mel is a true Ford fan and is always working on them. He was the first classmate to own his own car. Even though he seems to be "shy" around girls, Mel takes in a few socials now and then, He often holds little "get togethers" in his barn. He has an uncanny knack for saying the wrong thing at the wrong time in class. Mel will probably be fishing with his Dad next year at this time.

Future

Above, student body president Steve Moore displays clean-up poster, with his officers ready to support him. Right, eighth grade officers are planning a mission project.

Spirited students spark the sixties! By achieving leading scholastic goals, and inaugurating a successful student-body government, the eighth grade graduates have been ably backed by the seventh grade in boosting school spirit. As future Stars, they leave a memory of top performance as students and leaders.

Student Council

A major project of this year's Student Council was participation in the Attorney General of Oregon's Experimental Program in the Prevention of Crime. Delegates from the Council also attended the Winter Region 3 conference in Portland and gave an assembly to communicate the new ideas they received there. Including periodic reports from school clubs of student body meetings was incorporated into the regular form at student body meetings. Revitalization of the Lettermen's club was another project of this group of school leaders.

The Sodality of Star of the Sea School aims primarily at increasing the Spiritual Maturity of its members. To carry out its secondary aim of participating in the work of the Church, the Sodality spread devotion to the Advent wreath, made Christmas gifts for hospital patients and united the Catholic Youth of the city at a Mass, a breakfast and a dance.

GIRLS CHOIR

True to the tradition of Star of the Sea, music played an important part in life at Star of the Sea. In the religious vein, the Girls Choir sang throughout the year, while the Boys Glee Club and the girls' trio, The Tri-Glows, and a freshman trio entertained at many social functions. The Music Club, a group formed by a few real enthusiasts, was interested in the cultural aspects of music, and added variety to the many-faceted interests of our student-body.

Our numbers were small, but we proved to ourselves and to others, we hope, that the ready will can find the way. In THE MARINER, we have brought to Star of the Sea High School a new annual, a new title, and a completely new format. It was an adventure for us, which we hope will be beneficial to you. We detect a few lacks: those are for succeeding Mariner staffs to improve upon.

But our annual is not the work of the senior class only. We owe:

Our Thanks to . . .

BALL'S STUDIO for contributing the fine photography in our group pictures, and patiently complying with our deadlines.

MR. H. E. SLAGLE for his on-the-spot assistance with his camera at games and dances.

MRS. RUSSELL STOCKFLETH for her generosity in typing much of our copy, including this acknowledgment.

OUR PARENTS for all the assistance they rendered us in our different projects to finance and produce our annual.

SISTER MARY CATHERINE, annual adviser, whose work and assistance made this annual possible.

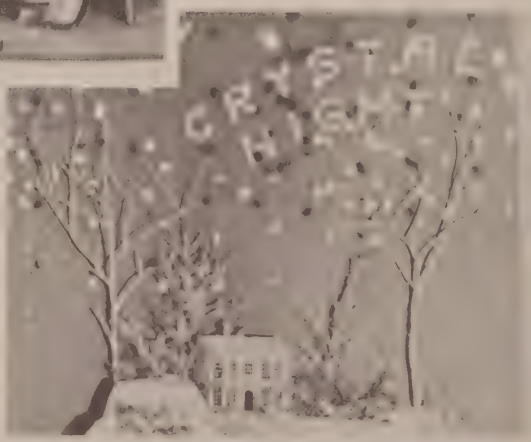
Extracurriculars

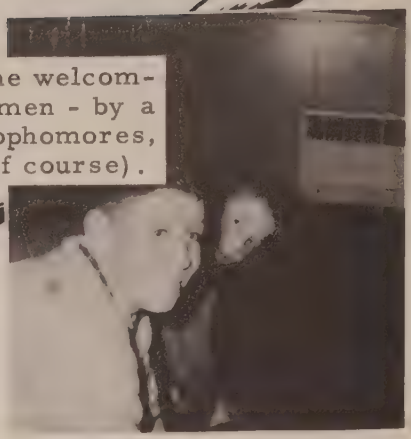
Senior Dance

Eight boys transformed the school into a "Crystal Night" at this year's Senior Ball. Falling snowflakes among glittering crystals and a wintery house scene high-lighted the popular decorations at this vacation-time affair.



Queen Connie Van Horn (seated) the "at large" candidate sponsored by the Senior class, reigned over "Crystal Night," surrounded by her princesses (l. to r.), Eileen Stevenson, Freshman; Kathy Wells, Junior; and Pat Peterson, Sophomore.

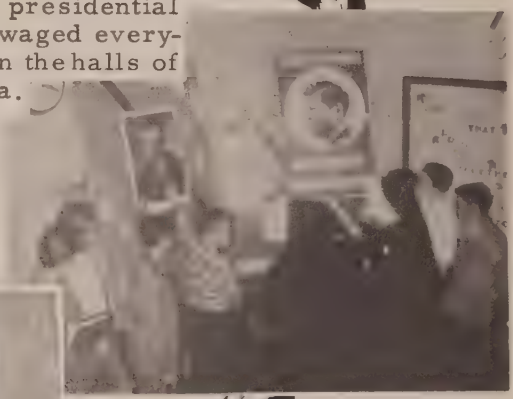
What Was In The Mariner's Log for '60-'61



The year opened with the welcoming of the new freshmen - by a dance put on by the sophomores, and by other means (of course).

The newly-accepted Pep Club members received their letters from their president.

The national presidential campaign was waged everywhere - even in the halls of Star of the Sea.



Tim Leigh won his second first-place award in as many years in the school "Voice of Democracy" contest.

Enthusiasm and fun again pervade the 9th Annual High school bazaar.

The Parent's Club went "Hollywood". "This is your life, Father Malyszko." They really surprised him by bringing his sister from Pennsylvania.

Students prepared for Christmas: interiorly, with the advent wreath ceremonies; exteriorly, with the freshman decoration of the church.

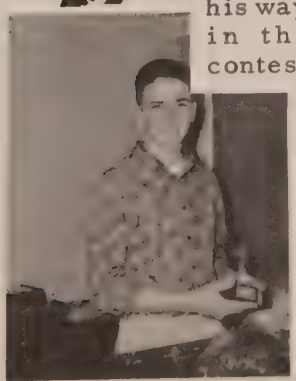
Dec. 2 - basketball fever started its three-months siege.

Thanksgiving day saw the Speech class entertain with an assembly featuring the "Straight-Jacket Four", who also played at a dance that night.

The days of reckoning - students crammed for that dreaded week of mid-term exams.

We had our last big fling before Lent. The freshmen entertained the student body at its colorful Mardi Gras dance.

Well, almost our last fling. The seniors needed one more party before the season of penance.



"Cicero" Van Dusen talked his way to a third-place trophy in the Optimist's speech contest.

UNDERCLASSMEN

The juniors honored the graduating seniors with a well-planned and decorated prom and banquet.

Our year closed with the reception of diplomas, the key to the adult world.

Mothers beamed as students honored them at their spring tea.

Spring had sprung and with it came house-cleaning.
